

Figure 1: 4D-printed dental filling material continuously change their shape and position from the center to the margins over time to prevent any marginal leakage or fracture.