

Figure 4: Intraoral and CBCT of the Palate of the NM patient. The palate demonstrates a severe soft tissue cleft, uncommon in most malocclusions (A). CBCT demonstrated a thin palate (B); however, no cleft in the bone was observed. The palate was significantly deeper than that of the matched open bite (C) and the matched control patient (D).