

Figure 2. The maximum force that buttons of increasing ceramic concentration withstood before breaking off of a 3D-printed premolar was determined. The 20% and 50% resin samples were not significantly different, but both were significantly more than the Control sample. Data represent mean \pm sem of n=15 per group.